Carver High School

Hello Readers. We hardly had time to stop this week for our news. Everyone was awfully busy this Tuesday getting that last correct sentence on the Semester Exam papers. From the thickness of some of those documents passed in, everyone is trying to tell how much he knows—or either does not know. Poor teachers. They'll really need their glasses.

The Glee Club last night enjoyed a trip to Lynchburg to hear Graham Jackson, pianist, organist, and accordian artist. Thirty members attended with their director, Mrs. James. Mr. J. T. Butler and Mr. James are members of the group who sponsored the artist. Benefits are all for the March of Dimes Campaign.

While speaking of the March of Dimes, last Friday at Assembly, the drive was launched here at school. Mr. J. W. Cawthen, retired Town Manager, spoke in behalf of the March of Dimes. His remarks were quite interesting. All home-rooms are competing to see who reaches 100 per cent participation first—which means the first home-room who fi:t has each member having filled in their cards with 50 cents. The 12th Grade is now leading. A large thermometer registers each noon, home-room totals. We are watching the mercury rise.

The Ninth Grade pupils are very glad they gave their play in chapel Friday and everyone seemed to have enjoyed it so much—that is, all but the teachers. They want to know where Arleantha got that funny hat she was wearing. Norrald Watkins and Sylvester Watkins want to know what Claude knows about their "droopy-droops." Let's have more plays like this one. And Claude can really act, can't he?

The "Miss Carver" Contest has keen competitors. Martha Trent is running from the Tenth Grade. Letia Moore was chosen to compete from the Twelfth Grade. Each home room is beginning t work hard for their contestant.

Jackie and Ann Lawing are back. While away they visited the "Carver School" in Chesterfield County.

Well—Martha Trent is wearing glasses. They become her very much. Can really study now, Martha?

Fannie West, Helen Brown and Ella Chambers are famous eaters.

Curtis Whitted and Eugene Brower were on the coal hauling gang last week. Also those little seventh grade boys. Better mind regulations!

Winston Jones and William Lipford, the tiny boys, are trying to be on the honor roll.

Until next week, our thought for the week: "Above all things is justice: success is a good thing, honor is better; but justice excells them all."

Memorial Service

Next Sunday, a memorial service will be held for the late Rev. L. N. H. Beahm, in the Church of the Brethren, at Lynchburg, which he founded some thirty years ago. He was more than ninety one years of age last November when he was killed in automobile accident south of Martinsville, in which Rev. W. C. Sweitzeh, of Ridgeway, Va., formerly principal of Pamplin High School was also seriously hurt. Rev. Beahm had spent more than sixty years in the ministry and was still active, having held a service the night of his death, and planning another for the next day. He had many friends in this area, who will be interested in the memorial. At 10 45 in the morning a silver plaque will be dedicated to his memory. The address of the morning will be delivered by the president of Bridgewater College. At noon a covered dish supper will be served for the convenience of those coming from a distance, and at two o'clock a service of reminiscenes will be held, and an opportunity given for all who care to, to speak a word of appreciation of the man, with the ready wit, and boundless experience that made him so welcome in any group.

New Division In Road Dept.

The State Highway Department has recognized the growing importance of Virginia's farm-to-market roads by establishing a Secondary Roads Division within its organization.

The appointment of Lewis E. Akers as Secondary Roads Engineer was announced by the department this week.

As Assistant Maintenance Engineer since 1943, Mr. Akers has been devoting virtually all of his time to secondary road matters.

Widely known among County Supervisors throughout the state, he is familiar with the secondary road problems of virtually all of the 97 counties whose roads are built and maintained by the state.

Among state highway engineers, Mr. Akers is recognized as the sparkplug and work horse behind the state's postwar program of secondary road improvements.

It has been his job to map, oversee plans for the 39,000-mile secondary system and to carry out as much construction as available funds permit.

In his new position, he will handle substantially the same work, though the scope of his authority will be broadened. As a division head, he will report directly to the Chief Engineer.

Born in Pulaski County, Mr. Akers has been with the Highway Department for 29 years. During this time, his experience has covered virtually every phase of the highway engineering field.

He is a graduate of the University of Virginia. Prior to coming with the Highway Department, he handled field survey work with the United States Geological Survey and the North Carolina road department.

PRELIMINARY SURVEY MADE OF HOG ISLAND

According to officials of the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries, a preliminary survey of the newly acquired Hog Island waterfowl refuge property has been made to determine what Pittman-Robertson projects should be undertaken on the area.

T. D. Watkins, Commission member from Midlothian, I. T. Quinn, Executive Director of the Commission, and Chester F. Phelps, chief of the Commission's Game Division and head of the Pittman-Robertson program in Virginia, made the survey.

Development of the Hog Island property as a waterfowl refuge holds a high priority in contemplated plans of the Commission.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Right Under Our Nose!

Sometime back, we got word from the Governor, asking if we wanted to use the State Fire Inspection Team—a group of experts they send around to communities to inspect public buildings.

We sent a letter saying: "Okay! Give us the once-over!" They came, down, all right—last week.

After the inspection, we got the report. Came out pretty well, all told. Town Hall and the Echo were O.K. Post Office just needed more sandbuckets. In fact, everything got a clean bill of health, except—the Fire Station!

From where I sit, we volunteer firemen had just been too blamed busy keeping everyone else on the ball—and not realizing our own firehouse was not up to snuff. Like the man who worries so much about his neighbors—about whether they work hard enough, about whether they can really afford their new car, about their enjoying a temperate glass of beer—that he forgets to take a good critical look at himself now and then.
